“UnMasked” is a compelling tale about how our actions and decisions help form our family legacy, and our ability to choose our path forward. Here’s a quick synopsis:

“UnMasked” follows the first-person narrative of three generations of women, 48-year-old Jen, her 16-year-old daughter, Kylie, and Jen’s 73-year-old mother, Patti. The three women’s perspectives and distinct voices are shared against the backdrop of the Pandemic. We follow their struggle to overcome past hurts, and family secrets as they look toward changing their family legacy. The reader is pulled into the family discord with the question, “What if your parents shared a huge family secret and told your daughter, “Don’t tell your mom!” would you confront the elephant in the room or do nothing?

I’d like to share with you a few comments from some beta readers.
