Happy End of July!

I hope July is treating you well! It's been a busy month, filled with lots of activities for me and my family.

We dropped our son off at MCTI (trade school on the west side of the state) just a few days before my book launch party. And while it was a bit anxiety provoking for both mom and son, it's been good.

My Book Launch Party on July 15th was so much fun! Thank you again to family and friends that came to my book launch. Our friend and videographer, Tony Austen from One Vision Media Group, is putting together a photo montage and video from the event. I can't wait to share it in the near future! Here's one of my favorite pictures - Dana and I at the end of the night, after I'd kicked off my high heels.
